A Charisma-tic Little Lady

Winning Moves Travels to Italy

Scopa, an Italian word meaning "to sweep," is a traditional Italian card game that is played with an artfully illustrated, custom 40-card deck of clubs, coins, cups, and swords. In this version of the game, from Winning Moves, players claim cards by playing a card from their hand that matches the value of one or more of the cards on the table. Taking a "scopa" means to sweep all the cards from the table. Scoring is based on the quantity and type of cards taken. Scopa is recommended for ages 10 and up.

Brain Blocks is designed to get players' creative juices flowing. Each Brain Block is unique. There are eight in all, each composed of cubes topped by bumps and divots. In some positions, they interlock, in others they don't—that's what makes it so challenging. Can you change a chair into a tower? Or a wall into a skyscraper? Players attempt to make these magical transformations, and more, with this puzzle. As a special bonus, consumers can make an all-new shape of their own and submit it to Winning Moves. If it's clever enough, they will win a prize. Brain Blocks is recommended for ages 8 and up.

Scribbo is a combination of elements from Boggle, Scrabble, Hangman, and traditional crossword puzzles. Players take turns calling out a letter and a number (e.g. A-23). Each player writes the letter in that number's space on either of their Scribbo grids. The numbers on each player's spaces are arranged differently. With careful letter placement, letters turn into words (horizontally, vertically, and along the diagonal). Play continues until all the grids are filled in. Players score points for each word they make, and can aim for special bonuses. Scribbo is designed for word game enthusiasts ages 8 and up.
